

PROLIFE FACTS

Christianity teaches us that every human being is valuable, because he or she is created and loved by God. Every human being is made in the image and likeness of God, including the weakest, oldest, sickest, least intelligent, least physically capable...and every unborn child, whatever their perceived potential.

However, the protection long encouraged by Christian values towards human life now seems to be giving way to a resurgence of the pagan attitude that the weak and disabled are deemed to be somehow of "less worth".

The NZ Ministry of Health announced that a new screening programme would enable earlier and more accurate identification of foetal disabilities. A leading obstetrician and gynaecologist described it as achieving "quality improvement". The late Professor William Liley and Dr Pat Dunn, called it "search and destroy".

In most cases, when shocked parents are told that their baby has Downs Syndrome, or Spina Bifida, the doctors will advise abortion – and 80% of such babies are aborted. Many parents, who insist on keeping their child, complain that they were not told of the support and treatment available.

Half page
95 x 128.5

PROLIFE FACTS

The NZ Ministry of Health announced that a new screening programme would enable earlier and more accurate identification of foetal disabilities. A leading obstetrician and gynaecologist described it as achieving "quality improvement". The late Professor William Liley and Dr Pat Dunn, called it "search and destroy".

Eighth page
47.5 x 128.5

Quarter page
95 x 64

PROLIFE FACTS

The NZ Ministry of Health announced that a new screening programme would enable earlier and more accurate identification of foetal disabilities. A leading obstetrician and gynaecologist described it as achieving "quality improvement". The late Professor William Liley and Dr Pat Dunn, called it "search and destroy".

In most cases, when shocked parents are told that their baby has Downs Syndrome, or Spina Bifida, the doctors will advise abortion – and 80% of such babies are aborted. Many parents, who insist on keeping their child, complain that they were not told of the support and treatment available.

PROLIFE FACTS

The NZ Ministry of Health announced that a screening programme would enable earlier and more accurate identification of foetal disabilities. A leading obstetrician and gynaecologist described it as achieving "quality improvement". The late Professor William Liley and Dr Pat Dunn, called it "search and destroy".

Banner
25 x 128.5